WOULD PERMIT TOKIO TO PRESENT EXCLUSION ISSUE

WOULD BE EMPOWERED TO PROTECT ALIEN BAR

Senator Warns That European Nations Might Take the Question of American War Debts Before World Court for Ruling.

Washington.—Warning that American adherence to the World court may result in Japan submitting her opposition to the alien exclusion acts of western states to the tribunal for a decision, Senator George H. Moses (Republican) of New Hampshire, denounced the court in the senate.

Moses also warned that European nations might easily take the question of the American war debts before the court for a ruling. In event of such a contingency, he declared, the court undoubtedly would apply "the golden rule" to the contentions of Japan and the European debtor nations.

Moses declared the fourteenth article of the court's protocol empowered the court to give an "advisory opinion" on any dispute submitted to it by the council or assembly of the League of Nations.

He continued: The way is readily open to Japan, for instance, to take to the League of Nations and through the league to the so-called court, its grievances growing out of statutes, enacted in western states which the Japanese may claim to be in contravention of our treaties with them.

Since treaties are indubitably international documents, this question, raised in this way, is international in its character and the court necessarily would take cognizance of it.

In any event, Japan could readily claim that these statutes threaten to disturb good understanding between nations upon which peace depends and therefore would have a firm foothold from which to approach the League of Nations and its courts.

There certainly is no legal obstacle to prevent the council of the League of Nations from submitting to the court the question of the competence of any of our debtors to pay the money which they owe us, or from asking the court to render an opinion on the subject of immigration or upon the question of our tariffs, and there is no legal obstacle whatever in bringing before the court the question of tolls in the Panama canal.

Moses charged the court was only "half a world's court," because of the sixty independent states in the world, only thirty-six have ratified the protocol. Among the nations on the American continent, he added, there are fifteen which have not joined the court.

He said that "old world statesmen" knew the United States was being "enmeshed in the league" by joining the court.

HARBOR WORK HERE URGED BEFORE SOLONS

Washington.—Admiral Gregory and Congressman Walter F. Lineberger of Long Beach appeared before the house rivers and harbors committee to urge the deepening and widening of Pinole shoals and Mare Island channel, which has been recommended by army engineers.

Admiral Gregory, chief of yards and docks, declared that the improvement was necessary for the maintenance of the Mare Island yard. Both he and the California congressman pointed out that Major Schulz, head of the ninth corps army engineers, stationed at San Francisco, had recommended this improvement to the war department as of vital need to the nation.

The dredging of the Mare Island channel would cost only about $250,000, it was estimated in the budget of needed San Francisco harbor improvements submitted to the committee this year.

The committee will hear from the Stockton and Sacramento officials here in the interests of the Stockton deep, waterway and the proposed Sacramento river improvement.

It was pointed out to the congressional committee that army and navy experts and several congressional investigating committees had recommended these improvements during the last five years.

$250,000 Asked for Postoffices
Washington.—Expenditure of $60,000 each for postoffices in Placerville, Auburn, Yreka, Redding, Susanville and Alturas, California, was proposed in bills introduced today by Representative Baker, Democratic member of the lower house from the Golden state.

AIR POLICY TO BE RUSHED BY CONGRESS

Some Members of the Committee May Seek Colonel Mitchell's Views If That Can Be Done Without Embarrassment to Officer.

Washington.—The relative position to be assigned to aircraft as a weapon in the national defense organization is to be given still further study by congress.

While the house naval committee pressed forward with its inquiry to determine the potential war power of dirigibles, the house military committee decided to open hearings in the near future on a number of bills proposing revision of the defense system to accord aviation greater recognition.

Specifically, the military committee will seek testimony on a bill by Representative Hill, Republican, Maryland, to create a department of national defense, in which land, sea and air activities would have co-equal status.

Meanwhile, a number of members of the military committee are drafting a bill designed to carry out recommendations of the president's air board, which proposed creation of additional assistant secretaries in the war, navy and commerce departments to handle aircraft problems, but opposed any drastic revision of the defense system.

Several members of the military committee also have indicated they will seek Colonel William Mitchell's views on aviation, if that can be done without causing any embarrassment to the officer, whose sentence by an army court-martial to five years' suspension now is before the president.

Testifying before the naval committee on a bill by Chairman Butler to expend $5,000,000 to replace the wrecked Shenandoah with a dirigible three times its size, Captain George W. Steele, commander of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station, affirmed his faith in lighter-than-air ships, which he said were in the development stage.

Admiral Hilary P. Jones, head of the navy general board, testified that the present war value of dirigibles was confined chiefly to scouting, but advocated development of this type of craft if it could be done without curtailing other naval activities.

GERMAN STEEL COAL CONCERNS CONSOLIDATED

Essen, Germany.—A huge steel and coal merger, embracing leading industrialists of Germany, which was concluded recently, represents the preliminary step toward the formation of a gigantic German combine, which is expected to compete in the world's markets with the United States steel interests and other international industrial alliances. The fusion of these Rhenish and Westphalian industries is considered the inauguration of international adjustment of the raw products problem.

While the Krupp are not identified with this merger, other foremost Rhenish organizations are principals in the combination, the chief movers being Friedrich Thyssen, Herr Voegler, who was an associate of the late Hugo Stinnes, and Emil Kirdorf, allied with the Thyssens.

Seven concerns or groups comprise the new combine, which will be known as "The United Steel Works, Ltd." Thirty-nine and one-half per cent of the shares will be allotted to the Rhein-Elbe Union, 26 per cent to the Phoenix group and 3½ per cent to the Rhein Stahl group.

Burns $4,000 to Keep Family Peace

Chicago.—No relatives of John Kelnar will quarrel over the $4,000 he had saved during his sixty-three years of life. He made sure of that before he slashed his wrists and throat and died. He withdrew the entire amount from the bank, asking for it in new $10 bills. Then he made a bonfire of the currency. Police found charred remnants of the crisp money when a suicide note pinned to his body told of the disposal of the savings "because I didn't want anybody to fight over it."

Sleeps in Booth Waiting Number

Chicago.—People who have aged perceptibly while trying vainly to get the correct telephone number will sympathize with Robert Drake, Judge Eberhardt held that falling asleep in a telephone booth while trying to get one's wife on the wire is not disorderly conduct and dismissed charges against Drake.

Tornado in Europe Kills Many

Belgrade, Yugo-Slavia.—Many lives have been lost in a terrific tornado which swept the country recently. Huge damage has been reported and communications are completely disorganized.

Weather Upsets Ship Launching

London.—England's coldest weather in many years upset the launching program at Southampton recently of the first torpedo boat destroyer built since the war.

CONGRESSMAN FREE ONE BUSY MAN

Congressman A. M. Free of this district is certainly a busy man at this session of Congress. He is a member of three committees of the House of Representatives, all of which are holding hearings on bills which are of national importance and will receive the consideration of the present Congress.

The Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, of which he is a member, has before it a bill to regulate the use of radio in the United States, and the greatest experts on radio in this country are collaborating with the committee to work out a solution of this matter, which now reaches into the home of nearly every resident of the United States.

The Immigration Committee, of which he is a member, is holding hearings on several bills which provide for the deportation of aliens who violate the laws of the United States.

The committee on the Election of President and Vice President, of which he is a member, has under consideration a question of changing the time at which the President of the United States should take office and the session of Congress begin.

At the present time elections are held in November, and the President does not take office until the following March; and Congress does not go into session until thirteen months from the time of their election, which means that very often members who have been displaced in the elections continue to legislate for nearly a year after they have been superseded.

It is needless to say that the action of these committees on these bills will be watched with interest by the people of the United States.

L. T. LENOX BOOSTED

The friends of Mr. L. T. Lenox are extending congratulations on his recent advancement to the post of assistant cashier in the Bank of San Jose.

FIESTA DE LAS ROSAS

The Santa Clara Valley Carnival of Roses will have the official title of the "Fiesta de las Rosas" was the decision of the Executive Committee at their meeting in San Jose Monday.

New impetus was given to the plans for the fete to be held on May 20, 21 and 22 when the combined committees met with Mr. Malcolm A. Frazier, who has been Secretary-Manager of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses for the past three years and who also managed the Diamond Jubilee Parade in San Francisco last September.

Mr. Frazier suggested that the parade should be composed entirely of vehicular units and that no marching bodies should be permitted in the parade as marching bodies are out of style and destroy the picture.

No artificial flowers will be allowed in the parade and painted signs will be barred, but in the Merchants Division the names will be allowed but must be done in flowers.

"Santa Clara Valley" is the best growing section in California, and the Rose fete to be held in May should equal if not surpass the Portland Rose Festival," said Mr. Frazier and the fete must be put on in such unique and novel manner that the visitors will return to future fiestas."

CLUB TO HOLD SPRING FESTIVAL

The meeting of the Country Woman's Club Monday was devoted entirely to business, two important matters being considered. After a full presentation of both sides of the question the question of joining the federated clubs was decided favorably, so that the club will become a member of the district and State federations.

It was also decided that the "Garden Party," which is the annual big spring fete will be held this year at Mrs. J. C. Ainsley has most generously offered the use of her beautiful lawns and gardens.

Mrs. Louis Shelley made a report of last years expenditures of the money raised for the Camp Fire Girls and talked for their proposed plans, and the Campbell groups.

J. D. BLAINE SELLS BUSINESS

Quite a considerable change has been consummated in the business street of Campbell. John D. Blaine who has conducted a grocery and dry goods business here for over ten years in selling his stock and fixtures to other stores. C. B. Field, L. S. Miller and Horace Lea are buying the groceries and fixtures and A. T. Davey is purchasing the dry goods and notions and will move his own stock and fixtures from the I. O. O. F. building to the store now occupied by Mr. Blaine. Mr. Davey also buys the notions and other goods of C. B. Field and the notions of L. S. Miller. H. C. Smith takes over the stationery and school supplies of all the above named firms and D. D. Dooley and will enlarge the present stock.

Mr. Blaine has made a host of friends through his business relations and has always been a most pleasant and friendly competitor. He is one of the most active and progressive of our merchants and will be much missed by both patrons and business associates when he leaves the street. So far he has not divulged his plans for the future but we will make one guess that some of his vacation days will see him hard at work on the tennis courts.

CAMPBELL CHAMBER BANQUET JAN. 29

The annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce will be held the evening of January 29th. The committee in charge, C. H. Whitman, Rev. W. E. Eckles and Ralston Alison, has made arrangements for the ladies of the Congregational guild to serve the dinner at the school Cafeteria. A limited number of tickets are on sale at the stores. It was necessary to limit the number to 150 as this is all that can be comfortably accommodated in the dining room.

Mr. Wm. A. Baylor, executive secretary of the Merchant's Association of San Jose will speak on "Community Co-operation" and Wendell Thomas will tell of some of his gleanings as a civic organization worker.

HI WINS ANOTHER

Mountain View high forfeited its game to Campbell Tuesday by non-appearance. They were probably well satisfied as to the outcome after hearing the result of the game with Sequoia. Our boys won handily Friday evening 25 to 17.

Elber Clark was the shooting star of the hour, sinking them from every angle and scoring 14 points. Rough tactics caused the loss of Foley of Sequoia through personal fouls. Our boys showed real work on the offensive but were slow at times on defense. Next game is with San Jose, Jan. 29th.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS GET-TOGETHER

Wednesday evening, January 13th, Santa Clara County Camp Fire Girls met together at the Y. W. C. A. for a jolly-up supper and song.

Get Licenses Now

Only a few days more remain in which to secure the 1926 license plates for your car. Don't wait until the last minute and face the possibility of paying the penalty of a double registration fee which will be assessed late comers after January 30.

This admonition to motorists was issued by George S. Grant, manager of the Touring Bureau of the California State Automobile Association which is issuing license plates for passenger cars to its 60,000 members.

During the 12 days of the renewal registration, which is a month earlier this year than last, thousands of the new 1926 numerals were issued from the offices of the Automobile Association. The heaviest rush was during the first three days but plates have been going out steadily from all branches ever since.

Even during the height of the opening rush, Grant said that the Automobile Association was able to live up to its slogan, "step right up, pay your $3, and step out with your license plates."

Mrs. E. J. Snow is enjoying a visit with her mother, Mrs. Detlefsen, who arrived last week from Denmark after spending a month in the east.

Miss Eva Bohnett who underwent two operations last week is at the home of her grandfather, Uncle Jos. Bohnett, in the care of her aunt Miss Grace, R. N.

Nineteen men who have served terms of varying length in San Quentin prison spent Christmas Day at their homes through the intercession of Warden Frank J. Smith. The state board of prison directors had paroled
the men to leave January 1, but upon the recommendation of Warden Smith,
made in his report submitted to the directors at their meeting of December 19, the men were released Decem-

NEW TELEPHONE BOOK FOR CAMPBELL SOON READY

WILL AID SERVICE

The Campbell Edition of the Los Gatos Telephone Company's Directory of Los Gatos, Campbell and Wrights will effectively aid in building up the services to telephone users between these towns, and will make the interchange of communication much easier than the past.

The book that will be distributed to nearly five hundred places in Campbell will be essentially a local medium, and probably more useful than any previously distributed here.

Due to a little delay in the printing; changes, will be made up to a few days hence, and will be brought right up to date.

Mrs. Huldah Parker, who has been ill for several days with the flu is up again but is not out yet.

Yesterday was the fifty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cutting and they were the recipients of a number of congratulatory greetings. The Press unites in extending felicitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodd Toles, who left Campbell a few years ago and went east, have returned to California and were down from San Francisco over Sunday and Monday. They are not as yet definitely located.

Fred Haile, one of the soldiers who was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Berry as a son during the war was a visitor at their home the first of the week, going from here to San Francisco Wednesday. Mr. Haile is looking for a location in California.

A MESSAGE OF THRIFT

The eternal question confronting the average person is whether to forego some of the essentials and near luxuries of life for the solemn duty of saving, or to live on and spend on for the richness that material forces can provide. In the one case the certainty of accumulation is mathematical; in the other, there is a disparity between investing for those things that lead to a richer life in cultural attainments and reaping
the harvest that follows profligacy.

There is no well established rule for the guidance of all people in matters of thrift. Benjamin Franklin gave us many good lessons, but lived in a different age. Though he had not the temptations to spend, his dollar, once let loose, would go much further than ours. He was temperate and had great balance of mind. What Franklin would do, were he living in 1926 with all the things to spend for, no one knows. Likely he would show even greater wisdom in frugality due to greater efficiency open to the man with the will to spend wisely.

There is a time to save and a time to spend;
a first requisite is the fitness in selecting the right attitude toward money and its relation to our needs and wants. There are probably more millionaires than misers, and there certainly are more paupers than millionaires. Neither of these stations in life prove any rule, for there are too many intervening circumstances that control the respective situations. The best rule of thrift is to weigh every transaction of the strength of one's ability, with the soundness of business judgment, and in the light of common virtue.

RAILROADS GETTING UP STEAM

What the railroads claim to have suffered during the period of the World War they admit regaining now year by year. With anything like prosperity there is no reason why they should not sustain themselves as paying institutions,
even without a so-called government "guaranty"
of dividend or earning rate.

The railroads bring within their ranks many of the brainy men of the nation. Although it was thought for a while that the motor car and motor truck would cripple the steam roads, the executives were far-sighted enough to lay emphasis on the long haul, and even to foster and encourage the motor car to function as a feeding adjunct to the rail systems. Moreover, the railroad people know that the more automobiles sold the more roads built, and the more roads the more houses, people, cities, farms and factories
there will be; hence more traffic and shipping.

There is no real saturation point in our national needs of transportation. If nothing else, the sectional booms that have been started, and that will continue to be passed around in various parts of the country, will help take care of the companies that are in the business of moving things.

LOOKING AHEAD

These early weeks of 1926 are a good time to look ahead into the coming year, with some effort to plan the things we hope to accomplish.

The foxy old timers knew that if they simply told a boy in a general way to saw up that old woodpile, the whole year might pass before his tired saw would have severed the last stick. But if they intimated that his reputation as a woodpile artist depended on finishing the job March 1st, the neighborhood would resound with the buzz of the saw and the clip of the axe. Boys and girls of an older growth also do well to cherish definite aims of achievement.

Some may say that 1925 was a punk old year for them and 1926 will be no better. All they can do is to drill along in the same old rut. Such ones might well think back to the old pioneers who built up this country, and ask how far they would have gone if they had manifested that same spirit.

Those folks toiled and sweated, they cut the forests and ploughed the fields and built cities,
meanwhile fighting the savages in their odd moments. And when they had nothing else to do, they fought two wars to establish independence.
They had a glorious old time working 12 to 16
hours a day, but we pity ourselves as enslaved toilers if we have to play the game for more than eight.

With their superb energy, they fought the good fight and enjoyed it. They created the most abundant industrial opportunity and the best government on earth and handed the same
over to us as a free gift.

With a little of their spirit, we shall get some big "stints" as the old-timers used to say, for ourselves, both in our individual occupations, and in our efforts to make Campbell a still more progressive community. There is a wide open opportunity in the golden days of 1926.

A knocking motor loses its power; and a knocking man his pull.

Beginning to Say Good Bye

THIS advertisement and the one next week are probably the last you will ever see over the name of Blaine's Store. Our stock and fixtures are being purchased by Messrs. Miller, Lea and Field, and Mr. Davey plans to take over our lease for his house furnishings and dry goods business.

We don't know how you feel, but we have a real lump in the throat. It's not easy to think without deep emotion about leaving the business life of a community like this one, where people are so worth knowing and so friendly. However, we do most fervently hope that the patrons who have meant so much to us through our years of business will be our friends still.

In the days remaining between now and January 30, do not call on us less—call on us more. Between now and a week from this Saturday, let's make it a sort of continuous farewell reception. It will cheer us a great deal to have our last days in the store very busy ones.

Gram. Notes

Mr. Abbot, principal of the school, started an honor system in the school this year with block letters, the school monogram, to be presented in Feb., and in June to those from each class who have qualified in scholarship, thrift, deportment etc. This monogram is to be in the new school colors green and gold, and made from felt. The monograms have been made in Miss Naylor's drawing classes and Frank Ferro of the high 8th designed the one chosen to be used.

The quarterly examinations are being held this week and promotions will come two weeks later. Graduation exercises will be held on Friday, Feb. 5th.

During the cold weather all of those bringing lunches are being required to eat inside; two rooms being open for them each day with teachers to supervise.

Mrs. A. Y. Hoag went to Santa Rosa Thursday, where she was called by the death of her eldest brother, Oliver Yates, who died the day previous. Mr. Yates spent some time here last summer making some changes in the P. B. Payne house and made a number of acquaintances during that time.

Save the Birds

The following item was taken from the San Francisco Chronicle-Napa, Jan. 13th. Gus Fraux, proprietor of the Sequoia Hotel, Jones and O'Farrell Street, San Francisco was today fined $100 when he pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace to having five robins in his possession.

There is a law protecting birds and as they are the orchardists best friends the law should be strictly enforced. Every year men and boys are guilty of shooting robins and other birds and ought to be given the full penalty provided.

REV. MARSH WRITES FROM ATHENS SCHOOL

(In England Concluded)

Another very serious problem is the liquor problem. If we had not believed in Prohibition before leaving America, we should certainly have been converted to believe in it by our voyage across the Atlantic on a British ship and by our stay in English cities. The large number of saloons the evident effect of liquor on the faces of great numbers of men and women in the poorer districts and upon the bodies of many of their children, together with the whole atmosphere of the poorer sections of Liverpool and London made us feel that in the Prohibition Amendment and the Volstead law America has one of the greatest assets ever possessed by any nation. I should hesitate to express my opinion about the Temperance situation in England were it not that I learned that my views coincided with those of a large part of the best leadership in the country.

After studying the fascinating records of England's great past as expressed in her architecture, her art, literature institutions, and national character, and the earnest manner in which she is facing present problems we came away with a much increased appreciation of her contribution to the higher life of the race, and a deepened conviction that it is of the greatest importance that America and England work together in the closest harmony for a better world. As we have studied world conditions during the past two months, we have been increasingly impressed with the great measure of integrity in British character. Here in the near east, she has been more than other nation, the bulwark of the oppressed.

I shall have a great deal to say about Greece in future letters, but I must at least introduce the country here. It is a land which casts its spell over you, being very much like Southern California; with long dry summers, short winters with more or less of rain. In America we think a thing old if it dates back for a century; in England it must be two or three centuries old to attract much attention; but here there are buildings and fragments all about us which are at least two thousand years old.

The School of Religion in which we teach is near the center of one of the pleasant suburbs of Athens, only a half mile from the sea. From our flat roof, where we sleep when weather permits, we have a glorious view of the Acropolis some five miles away. Morning, noon and night we look up in admiration at the noble pillars of the Parthenon, as they vary in shade from hour to hour with the changing lights and shadows of the day. Even at this distance it stands against the sky as one of the great achievements of the human spirit. From our roof, we have a wonderful skyline; to the east Mt. Hometus, famed to ancient times for its honey, to the north Athens with the Acropolis, with Mt. Lycabettus high and precipitous, crowned on its narrow point with a tiny church. Beyond the large mass of Mt. Pentelicon, whence the Greeks have been hewing their marble, shining white, for at least twenty-five hundred years; and it is still furnishing doorsteps to all the better houses all over the city. To the west more mountains only a few miles away, and to the south just a glimpse of the sea with its myriad islands, most prominent being Salamis, which thrills us every time we look at it and think of the great naval victory won there more than two thousand years ago. From the seashore half a mile away, there is one of the most charming skylines across the miles of sea which I ever saw. I never look at it without thinking with joy and affection of the skyline of the Matilija range in the Ojai, which it much resembles.

But I must not leave you thinking that our chief occupation is enjoying classic art and scenery. We have never been so busy before in our lives. Mrs. Marsh teaches the children of the faculty all the morning and teaches English in the School of Religion three hours a week, besides being mother of the family.

Town Tales Tersely Told

Miss Joyce Robson who has been quite ill following an operation is reported very much improved.

The F. H. Cutting family is abed with the flu with the exception of Douglas who is acting as cook, bottle washer and nurse.

G. E. Farley who was one of the flu victims has been suffering for some time with ear trouble which developed from that disease, but is improving now.

Mrs. A. H. Osborn, who has been taking various treatments for the loss of her voice, had her throat operated upon Monday. Her many friends trust that it may prove effective.

Miss Mary Rodeck who has been quite ill since New Year's is considerably improving and gaining steadily.

to twenty four students of our school, and having many social duties connected with that position. I teach Church History and Church Administration and sit at the head of the table and fulfill many duties in the position which the English call that of a Warden. Among other things I am taking over the duties of Registrar, and helping with the accounts. The part of our work which we enjoy most is our constant association with this splendid body of students, this year Greeks and Armenians. Last year, there were also Bulgarians and Russians, and we hope to have representatives of those races again next year. There has been as much hardship and heroism in the lives of these twenty young men and four young women as in any group of the same size that I have ever met.

The story of almost every one would make a tale of absorbing interest. We live in a suite of four small rooms in one of the two school buildings. The front room which has its one window opening onto the small front yard is our sitting room where we are at home to all the students and other visitors. Our bedroom is tiny and its two windows look out mostly onto stone walls a few feet away.

You will be interested to know that while there is noble architecture in spots most of the people live in very plain tiny stone or dobe houses. The houses are of these materials because the country in this neighborhood is almost devoid of wood. There is a vast amount which an American sanitary engineer would delight in cleaning up. Each Sunday I go to preach in some one of the four great camps of refugees, each one numbering thousands of people, which the Greek people took in so unselfishly three years ago when nearly all the nations of the world, including America, closed their doors to them after they were driven out of Smyrna. I was somewhat horrified the first time I went, as the dirt and odors were such as would bring out the entire street cleaning department in any American city where such a condition might occur. But they say conditions are much better than they were two years ago. The Greek Government has done a splendid piece of work in caring for the Armenian Refugee as well as for its own Greeks from Smyrna and Asia Minor.

We are glad that we are here, because we feel that it is a great opportunity to be able to touch the life of the near east helpfully, even a little, through this international school, and to help America pay its international debts.

Every land which we have visited has greatly increased our love and admiration for America, with its immense capacity for achieving things. We hope that she may soon enter into a worthy partnership in world affairs, realizing that she has built her splendid life upon the material, human and spiritual wealth which she has drawn from all the nations of the earth. As this letter will reach you just about Christmas time I want to wish all our Campbell friends and all the people of Campbell all the deep and abiding joy of Christmas season, as we shall think together of the Christ who is creating a new and better world for all the nations of the earth.

George L. Marsh.

News of Interest to All

Formation of a Junior American Legion was decided upon by the Stanislaus county council of the Legion at a meeting held in Patterson recently. This promises to be the initiation of a national movement, for word has been received from national headquarters in Indianapolis that the national of floors of the Legion await with interest complete plans of the movement.

One of the largest poultry establishments in San Fernando valley is being erected on W. R. Dunsmore's 40-acre walnut tract, west of Van Nuys town site, Los Angeles county. The plant, which will be known as the "Golden West Poultry Farms," will comprise about twenty buildings. It is expected that the cost of the plant will amount to about $40,000.

A transfer of 4,000 acres of land on Twitchell island from the Midland Farms company to a bank in San Francisco has been recorded in Solano county and will be subdivided into small farms.

Mrs. Mary Collins, 91, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. R. Hines, near Grass Valley, Nevada county, is said to have been the founder of Virginia, Tulare county. Mrs. Collins erected the plains in a ox cart during California's gold days, and with her husband, now deceased, built the first house in Virginia.

Says Prohibition Is Immoral

Boston.—Rev. Charles J. McIntyre, S. J., of St. Mary's church, told his congregation that the prohibition law should not be enforced. He said the law was "immoral in itself and interferes with the liberty of the citizens."

Again Heads Tariff Commission

Washington.—For the third consecutive time, President Coolidge designated Thomas O. Marvin of Massachusetts as chairman of the United States tariff commission. The appointment is for one year.

Washington.—Salvage operations on the submarine S-51, sunk off Block Island, R. I., September 25, were ordered abandoned by Secretary Wilbur until next spring.

Clark County (S. D.) Bankers, have appointed an agricultural committee of five to aid the county agent in putting across the latter's program of work, with especial emphasis on a ten-acre corn contest and eradication of tuberculosis in the county.

Despite the fact that the rainfall this season is but five inches, against more than fifteen at the same time last year, Napa valley has not suffered from the drought. This is due in great part to the heavy fogs that have hung over the region for the greater part of the last month.

Over the protests of residents of the outlying districts of Lodi, San Joaquin county, who declared they needed their dogs to run free at night to drive off possible marauders, the city council adopted a strict ordinance requiring all canines within the city limits to be kept up or on a leash.

Any one who has driven an automobile in a new country knows the value of a good road map. Farm accounts, properly kept, are a reliable road map.

D. H. Otis

In farming communities where records have been kept in considerable number it is not unusual to find differences in net income of $1,000 per farm between the average and the poorer farms of the community. It is also frequently found that there is a difference of over $1,000 between the average farm and a few of the better farms of the community. These differences of from $1,000 to $2,000 per farm in the net income are of vital concern to any farm in any community.

Where to Get the Facts

Farm records and inventories will reveal the reasons for these differences. The various colleges of agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture have a collection of records and farm management surveys from which they find it possible to construct standards or guides showing actual attainments under good systems of management. Figures of this kind are available to county agents and farmers who desire to use them. It is also possible to organize farm accounting groups in a community and with the help of the College of Agriculture to develop community standards showing what the average and what the better farms are doing. These standards or examples of what the more successful farms are doing, when handled in such a way as not to divulge the identity of the owners, are a wonderful help in pointing out to the less successful farmers the weak spots in the business management of their farms.

How to Use the Facts

The farmer who keeps a careful record of the factors relating to the business management of his farm is in position to compare his farm with the average and with the best in the volume of business, as number of acres, total investment, number of cows, total receipts and total expenses. He can check on his diversity of income by comparing his income from sale of cows, sale of livestock, livestock products and sales from miscellaneous sources. His quality of business can be studied by comparing such items as income per acre or income per cow, etc.

By such a process the farmer is in position to make his records talk to him and point out the weak and the strong features in his farm operation. There is no tax that we pay today that compares with the tax we pay for our ignorance. This is true on the farm as elsewhere. Farm records, including inventories from which it is easy to form financial statements, will do wonders in reducing the tax of ignorance and placing farm business on a business basis and inspire confidence in the farmer, himself and with all those with whom he deals.

The Atlanta, Ga., Clearing House gives the boll weevil no rest. In an effort to effect a concerted and state-wide poison war on the boll weevil, this institution sent letters recently to all the bankers in the state asking that they assist in emphasizing the need for a wholesale war on the pest. According to a recent survey poisoning is being done on the larger farms, but not to any appreciable extent on the small farms. According to reports by the Department of Agriculture, the boll weevil infestation is heavier this year than ever before, and if allowed to go unchallenged the crop will be destroyed. Immediate and extensive action is urged.

Dates for fairs to be held in the San Joaquin valley and other California communities this year were set at a meeting held in San Francisco of the Western Fairs' association. Fresno's fair will be held September 27 to October 2. The Merced county fair will be held at Merced August 25 to 28; the San Joaquin county fair at Stockton, August 24 to 29; Stanislaus county fair at Modesto, September 13 to 18. Tulare county fair at Tulare, September 21 to 25; Madera county fair at Madera, September 23 to 25. The California state fair will be held in Sacramento, September 4 to 11, and the Oregon state fair at Salem, September 27 to October 2.

Estimates of the bureau of vital statistics of the state board of health show that the birth rate in California dipped still further during the year 1925. The date rate also decreased. These estimates indicate there were 87,100 babies born in the state last year. This is a slight increase over the 86,899 births in 1924, but by reason of the estimated increase in population during the last twelve months, the 1925 rate is actually lower than for 1924.

Oroville's (Butte county) total building program for the year 1925 was $141,092. The program of building will more than treble this amount. A resume of announced plans for the erection of new buildings in 1926 shows a $450,000 program mapped out for the year already. The program includes the completion of a new bank building, erection of a new theater, a new Elks' building, a Legion memorial hall, a Native Sons' building and a new store building.
